Your antenatal diabetes clinic is taking part in an important project to check that women with diabetes are being provided with good care during pregnancy. This project is called the National Pregnancy in Diabetes (NPID) audit.

To take part in the NPID audit, your diabetes antenatal team will collect information about your diabetes and your pregnancy. The data will be held on a secure electronic system. The collection, and use of such information, is strictly controlled by law and follows national standards of confidentiality and security. For further information about how this information is used, please see the NPID audit patient information leaflet.

By taking part in the NPID audit, this service shows that it is committed to improving the care of women with diabetes who become pregnant.

If you do not want your information to be used, please contact NHS Digital:

E-mail: enquiries@nhsdigital.nhs.uk  Telephone: 0300 303 5678

This decision will not affect your care. More information is available – please ask a member of staff for a patient information leaflet.
